Graduate Sustainment Session: Communicating Across Generations - Via Webex

In-Person

The topic of discussion: Communicating Across Generations

What You'll Learn

At the completion of this module, participants will be able to: * Work with and communicate more effectively with diverse generations * Connect with and gain buy-in from different generations * Provide sincere recognition and appreciation that motivates each generation

Why you want to learn it

Insofar as today's workforce may be comprised of as many as four generations working side-by-side, connecting with each other may present even more of a challenge. Each generation has their unique mindset, work style, and ways of communicating. Learning to work and communicate across generations has become vitally important to building a cohesive, productive, and successful team.

How it will help you

We have started to hold these sessions quarterly. Each session will have a different topic to provide value to our graduates. Please come prepared to share your experience. Looking forward to seeing you! We will send out the Webex access information the day before the session. Please click on the Register button to participate.
