

Organizational Development

Business Execution: Linking People, Goals & Accountability to Drive Results

In-Person

Execution separates winners and losers. Winning companies have a clear strategy; employees who understand their roles and responsibilities in the plan; and an accountability system that ensures the right things get done on time.

What you'll learn

By the end of the seminar you'll know how to create a team where the members know their roles in the plan, the plan pieces they are personally responsible for executing and what measurements will be used to hold them accountable for results. You will have created an "Execution Culture" in your organization.

Why you want to learn it

Develop a disciplined approach to turning strategy into reality. Learn how to bring this same discipline to your company, division, department or business unit.

How it will help you

Incorporating the steps to Business Execution will help you make the positive impact on your business and drive the results you want to achieve.