Strictly Business: Dale Carnegie Immersion - Free Session

In-Person

This course enables you to sharpen the skills necessary to excel in today's business environs, including persuasive communication, creative problem solving, and maintaining confident and enthusiastic attitudes.

What you'll learn

You will learn to communicate more confidently, clearly, and concisely, and project an enthusiastic attitude. Discover ways to energize and engage listeners and persuade people to act. You'll focus heavily on building trust and strengthening relationships to instill confidence and vibrancy in your workplace.

Why you want to learn it

This course is designed for any professional, at any level, who wishes to optimize their performance, lead with conviction and have a consistently positive effect on the bottom line. We will develop a foundation for success by exploring the power of persuasion, presenting ideas clearly, and cultivating lasting relationships. In short, you'll leave with a bounty of tools that make you a more professional, confident, and enthusiastic leader in today's workforce.

How it will help you

Overall, the Dale Carnegie Immersion Seminar will refocus your energy to become a more effective communicator, securing your place as a valued contributor in your organization. As you become a persuasive communicator and problem-solver, adept at managing stress and change, you'll find yourself setting an example for others who are inspired by your initiative and innovation. The results are measurable and long-term.
