WORKSHOP: The Leadership Challenge in Healthcare

In-Person

Test

What you'll learn

You will discover what causes an employee to become disengaged from an organization and the most important factors to address those causes. You will recognize the benefits of building a culture of engagement and the positive effects such a culture has on the bottom line. You will gain practical tools to use with both clinical and non-clinical staff to build an effective culture of motivated and inspired associates.

Why you want to learn it

Engaged team members consistently have a positive effect on patient outcomes and core business goals. They choose to bring discretionary effort to the organization rather than just doing the minimum. Effective leaders know how to respond to issues and resolve conflict to increase productivity. By expanding your leadership toolkit you will find new ways to engage your team members.

How it will help you

You will develop awareness as a leader as to what you can do to make a difference. You will learn how to tap into people's potential and bring out the best in them. You will have an improved understanding of the value of your people and their impact on your results.
