Winning the Hearts and Minds of Your Workforce - Transform Your Organisation!

Presencial

As Cyprus begins to emerge from its economic crisis, this free, 2-hour seminar has been designed, to help organisations once again focus on their most important assets - their people!

O que aprenderá

As leaders in the people side of process improvement we have designed this seminar to help you address the challenges organisations in our country currently face. You will also be shown practical and effective techniques in how to manage resistance to change, as well as how to create ownership and accountability. In addition we will look at influencing vs telling.

Por que precisa disso

Today, there are so many new ways of working that we are asking people to embrace. From going digital to improving processes, from cultural transformation to working as a team. We can put in place the tools, techniques and ways of working but winning hearts and minds can often be the most difficult challenge. Rapid change, evolving technology, as well as a workforce that is younger, older and more diverse than ever before presents businesses today with a set of challenges that have not been seen before.

Resultados que vai atingir

You'll learn to understand the difference between winning hearts and minds and learn to identify who you need to influence. By implementing practical, proven techniques you'll learn how to change attitudes and create a positive, productive work environment that boost morale and the bottom line.
